South Yarmouth man wins deck-fastening competition

James Bird of United Kitchen & Bath Design in South Yarmouth took first place in the latest leg of the CAMO Screw Off! competition, held May 31 during a contractor event at Fairview Millwork in South Yarmouth, according to a news release.

The CAMO Screw Off! event was designed by National Nail to introduce contractors to CAMO's deck-fastening products, the release states. Contestants competed against each other in a timed-deck fastening contest; other qualifying events will take place at dealer locations in New Jersey and New England throughout the spring and summer.

Bird and other qualifiers will have the chance to win a 2017 Harley-Davidson Roadster motorcycle and other cash prizes at the CAMO Screw Off! finals being held in February in Providence.
